This is my Tennessee
Walking Horse,
Toppers Breeze reg.
#871786 by Chapie's
Topper x Sunday Breeze.
He was born in Canada on May 25, 1987. He was the best! The photo was taken when he was 31 years old. He was retired his last three years. I would just 'dress him up' to take photos for all the holidays. That one was for

He passed away that fall.

Volume XLV, #3 May/June, 2021

Dear Subscribers,

Back in 1975 and 1976 I was so frustrated. We had looked everywhere for a TWH stallion for the two Calvin Miller mares that we'd finally discovered and purchased in Alberta. At that time you had to ask around in the horse community, comb through classified ads or attend auctions - there was no internet back then! Eventually we found Prince Radar at Bob & Edna Lamport's... but it shouldn't have been so hard. So that's when I decided to start a newsletter for Walking Horses. It was time to form a community of people interested in TWH, which were a real rarity here at the time. So that's how the WHN began.

This issue marks 45 full years since the first newsletter was mailed. I am reproducing that issue on pages 3 to 5. It's interesting to look back to see the people, horses (and prices!) plus what has become my constant appeal for news and ads. We've come a long way. Back then I certainly wasn't looking ahead this far! But I did call it Volume 1, #1. So, to celebrate 45 years of recording the rising popularity of TWH in Canada, we'll print this issue in colour.

Enjoy the stories and news, the photos and history, and don't forget to send in your news and ads!

Happy Trails,

Marjorie

August issue: Let's have a real news round-up! Please return this page, with your news and $2.00, by August 1/77.

That's all there was. Just names of some owners, a few ads and a bit of news about TWH stallions noted on the AB Government Horse Branch. But it was the beginning of TWH owners getting to know about each other. By October I was mailing out 100 newsletters. We had a way to get in touch with others with our breed.

NEWS - NEWS - NEWS

From BRENDA WOODALL, LINDEN, AB, "The April 'MYSTERY COVER' photo is my mare Velvets Summer Chance with her 2020 colt FF-16 My Intrepid Boomer. Thanks for using it; I really love that photo!"

Thank you, Brenda. Many readers also commented on what a great 'new foal' picture it is.

Left is Velvets Summer Chance with Boomer later in the summer. Boomer now lives with the Ernst family in Prince Albert, SK

SANDRA ERICKSON, EDMONTON, AB writes, "I have sad news to report. My nearly 21 year old TW, Ridgewalker Lucky Drifter - aka Lucky - passed away suddenly on February 26th. It appears he had a heart attack. He was alive and well the previous day. He was alive at 4:30 a.m. eating at the feeder. At 8:00 a.m. he was discovered lying dead beside the feeder. There was no indication of any sort of struggle in the snow. It appears he just went down very suddenly. Needless to say, it was a terrible shock. I shall enjoy reading the articles in the WHN magazine, but I thought you should know that there won't be any pictures or stories involving poor Lucky. Thank you for the work that you do."

From KARLA HANSEN, PONOKA, AB, "I would like to congratulate the Mark Sloan family of Edson, AB on the purchase of Pride of Gen's Terminator. I wish them many wonderful experiences with this good-looking big black mare. I am so happy she has found a wonderful home."

NATALIE SPECKMAIER, VANCOUVER, BC writes, "My Golden Girl has hit the magic age: of twenty nine! on March 28. And she shall be 29 forever, as is the right of all females."

"With now being in her golden years (how appropriate) she is enjoying microwaved carrot chunks as she only has teeth on one side of her jaw. Her main diet is soaked alfalfa cubes and wet beet pulp plus some hay that she can pick at and actually get bits of it in her rather than balled up on the ground. With dry weather almost here, pasture is a welcome event since she still has front teeth for grazing."

"Trigger has earned her right to a comfortable retirement and enjoys the excellent care she receives at her barn. My weekly visits are welcomed, mostly for the treats I bring, but also for any grooming I'm able to provide while I'm there with her. We have been partners for 20 years and we both miss our wonderful trail rides, fund raising rides, equine events and clinics. Roy Rogers and his Trigger Jr. would have been proud of my Trigger, carrier of the golden genes."

"So there's all you ever wanted to know about Trigger but weren't motivated enough to ask. That'll teach you! Happy Birthday Trigger."

A TRIBUTE TO MOSES, TWH

In July 2020, when Moses was not long for this world, I decided to document some of the amazing and wonderful times that we had with him. But because it was a painful time, I was not emotionally able to send it in for publication until now.

We bought our six-year-old robust, chestnut-coloured TWH in February 2008 and had him trained by our friend Dennis Tucker. It appeared that the shape of cows did not fit any of his sheltered life experience on a farm near Douglas, Manitoba with his parents, cousins, grandparents and buddies. After five months of regular training, we moved him to the Belof horse ranch in White City, SK.

Before we transferred Moses from Broadview, SK, I rode him for a longer trail ride, our first trail ride together. He was exhibiting some dominance and irascibility that day. But with some gentle perseverance (and some not so gentle), Moses came to know his new owner. Over the years we developed a special rapport and team spirit.

I often rode our beloved horse with some other horses and riders around 300 acres and enjoyed the natural prairie grass fields of an accountant friend named Thomas. The rider to rider conversations were fun and relaxing and added greatly to this twenty some year hobby of ours. Story-telling and boisterous chuckles were shared as we sauntered along. Being in the great outdoors and visiting with other riders was a good antidote to the intense work I do with people.

Moses became one of my intimate confidantes, with whom I shared the struggles of parish life. It is delightful to know that I am not the only human being who has enjoyed a lovely hug from Moses. When we were in Moosomin, SK, the folks from the local kinability centre came to visit him. He respectfully allowed every willing participant to touch him. In June 2020, when Karen Hart of Wintergreen Farms in the Sandy Ridge area west of Saskatoon had guests for an evening, Moses gave each one a warm and gentle hug. I gather that he came by to listen to the human conversation that was taking place at the gate. Did he know he was a horse?

Over the space of a few years, Bev and Roy Belof spent a fair bit of time orienting me, Moses and my husband Art Howell, to the pastime of horse driving. We got an Amish two wheel cart from Perth County, Ontario, made by the capable hands of Wayne Kuepher. Despite all of this wonderful support, we also learned some valuable lessons through experience! We learned as we went and we became a pretty good amateur driving team.

For much of the time during our three years in the eastern part of Saskatchewan, Moses and Art and I enjoyed driving around the former dairy farm land owned by Alice and Lynn Abrahamson on the west side of Moosomin. We took many pleasant jaunts around the very large back field of their farm. We wrote and posted photos about these times in earlier editions of WHN.

By mid June 2020, it was clear that Moses was riddled with arthritis and was in pain because of a detached stifle, in spite of daily doses of Previcox and the excellent supplement called Recovery EQ.

This long and wonderful chapter of life with Moses the TWH, concluded in early August 2020. By the end of that summer, new horizons were being broached as we prepared to welcome another TWH into our horse, dog and human family.

We thank our Creator for the blessing of having such respectful, energetic, sensitive and smart animals to spend recreational hours together. by Trish McCarthy

*Any new foals at YOUR place?
Tell WHN about them for next Foal Call!*

MAUREEN GERMSCHIED, EVANSBURG, AB writes, "Things are going well around here now. Greg has gotten rid of his crutches and is using just a cane now. I'm sure he'll be back on a horse by summer. We are in our new house, which is such a relief, and I have been finding the time to work on a young horse with my oldest granddaughter, Mika. She is doing a great job. I'm also managing to work on a couple of the other young ones, and Greg can't stay out of the round pen if there is a horse in there. Our oldest son, David, has been over riding a few times as well."

"Tim Barton hauled us up to the Outpost in a wagon from the Yaha Tinda and that was a lovely break in March. We'll be going back to sing and try and help out again this month, we hope. It is such a special place and Tim is such a good friend."

"We are really looking forward to the foaling season this year. We managed to get our little palomino pony in foal to Image and he also bred a champion racking mare from Florida last year. We can't wait to see what that combination produces. Of course, our two brood mares are also in foal and a few special outside mares that we wait to hear about. The spring is always such an exciting time on the farm. We hesitate to say that we are hoping for some rain after such a dry winter, but we do need some."

"Below is Mika on Images Lucky Dude; her first time training a horse and his first ride. They both were great."

LESA LUCHAK, THREE HILLS, AB writes, "I have sold Jack, (LL Chance's Red Rascal), above, and Destiny, (LL's Ginger Spice) to Jesseca Johanson of My Dream Ride, Viking, AB. I look forward to seeing what else they all accomplish in the CRTWH Program For Excellence. Destiny should qualify for Heritage 2A papers."

FROM ASHLEY STROUD & GREG WIEBE, ONOWAY, AB, "We don't have any foals due this year but we are planning on breeding two mares this year. Kits Gotta be Fabulous will be bred to Northfork Top Traveller and Gams Sunbeam will be bred to Karla's Hustler."

"We have also purchased a lovely colt from Lisa Bozak named Legend of Excalibur. He is fitting in to the herd really well. We will be getting updated pictures of our herd once they fully shed out and the grass comes in so everything looks nice again."

"We have a bunch of improvements planned for this summer, including a stud pen and three new pastures with better and safer fencing."

"All around, with the schedule for riding this year with the AWhA, we plan to attend quite a few rides this year, dependant of course upon not being so busy our heads spin."

JO-ANNE McDONALD, POUCE COUPE, BC writes, "Here are our horse sales for April. All of them were picked up within a week so we've noticed quite a hole in the chore routine! Marjorie Lacy purchased the gelding Genelon by Uphill Heir Trigger. Anna and Terry Langlois, Valleyview, AB purchased the yearling stallion, Dillon's All Blue, and Rob and Joanne McKenzie purchased the stallion Shakin' The Blues and the yearling filly, Smoke's Silver Success. We wish you all the best of luck with these horses, and we are pleased to send you gift subscriptions to Walking Horse News with our compliments."

READERS WRITE

The picture of Canadian Perfection in the Clarks Red Allen article in the April WHN brings back some precious memories.

Back in about 1988, my brother Ted, his wife Sharon, my wife Carol and our seven-year-old daughter Carley packed in Ted's crew cab and set off to Oregon on a horse hunting trip. We stopped off at Marj Fabro's in Kimberly, and a few farms in Washington before landing at the Jackie Kalberer place in Umatilla, OR. That arrival was an experience in itself.

Jackie lived in a mobile home that needed a few repairs. After trying to arouse some life on the morning of our arrival, we saw Jackie poke her head out the window with her beautiful long hair hanging down like Rapunzel. There was a dog in the yard pulling around an afterbirth. We wondered what to expect. However, after a most cordial welcome, we were introduced to the most awesome herd of horses we had seen to that date.

Most notable was Sun's Jack Dare, a direct son of Midnight Sun, still regal at age 18, and of course the most memorable, Avenging Big Bertha. She was a huge mare but completely gentle. Jackie suggested we mount up and take a ride. I had ridden Tennessee Walkers for 20 years before that but never experienced anything like her. Jackie boosted me up bareback and with just a halter, and off we went through the swales, and around all the paraphernalia in the pasture that Jackie said was there to accustom the horses to various obstacles. I had never ridden a horse that went so smoothly and never broke gait. We wanted her offspring! And thus we brought home the weanling Crescent Merry May. Of course, we nicknamed her Jackie. On the same trip, we discovered Pride's Dominator in Redmond and made arrangements to bring him home also.

These horses became the foundation of the legacy that became Tenn Walk Stables. The success of Canadian Perfection (Buster Brown), son of Jackie, (Crescent Merry May) is understated in the Clarks Red Allen article.

My brother Ted is downsizing due to poor health and had me take his trophies. My mantle is now full of hardware that Buster brought home.

1995 - Top Movement Award at the Canadian Futurity
1997 - First Place two-year-old Geldings, Canadian Futurity

1998 - Reserve Champion two-gait Performance Canadian Futurity

Three Gait Versatility Champion, TWHA

2002 - AWAH Grand Champion Western Pleasure

2003 - AWAH Grand Champion West Pleasure

Doug Green Memorial Cup for High Point

Three Gait Horse in the AWAH

I must give credit to Greg Czech who did most of the training, and Dixie Ball who did the riding. On another memorable trip with Rod and Dixie, Buster travelled to Reno, Nevada and won the Trail Class at the Western States Celebration. In that era, meeting a standard was not sufficient. All the gold horses got together to determine the best of the best.

Buster joined other superior Alberta Grand Champions of the era. Pride's Dominator 1990, Toddy's Perfect Lady 1991, Sun's Blue-eyed Mystery, 1992 and 1993 (also from Jackie Kalberer's), My Chocolate Lady 1994, Carolina Delight, 1996, Bopper's Classic Echo 1997, Chapies Ready Lad, 2001 and 2003 (tie), Power's Canadian Copy, 2004, and Hot Lightning 2005.

Since that time, sadly, there have been no AWAH shows or Championships to recognize superior horses. A note to any executives of the current Association. I have the following perpetual trophies that I would be happy to return should you wish to have them

- The Doug Green Memorial Cup for High Point three Gait Horse.
  - Alberta Walking Horse Association, Alberta Grand Champion - Lite Shod
  - Alberta Celebration - Helen Williamson Memorial- Walking or English Seat Equitation 3 gait.
  - Champion of Champions 3 gait- Alberta Celebration
- Dan Davies Memorial - Western Trail or English Obstacle Open 3 gait

I also have a perpetual trophy for the Tennessee Walking Horse Canadian Futurity - Three Gaited Horse Grand Aggregate During Futurity Years, if anyone from that Association would like to reclaim the trophy.

Gone at 31 years old, but not forgotten

Toppers Breeze was a fixture at Timberline Tours in Lake Louise for 29 years and will always remain there through photos and memories.

My search started after an earlier heart horse broke his leg and was euthanized. I was devastated - and it took a year before I wanted another horse. Ironically I somehow ended up with a Walking Horse News and answered an ad for a two year old gelding listed by George and Heather Sharpe in Drumheller. I bought Breeze and his half-brother, a small bay out of a paint mare. Dolittle made great little dude horse for Timberline and lived to 30 years old.

I broke them both myself. Breeze was a character, always providing you with a laugh and making sure to keep you on your toes. He could pick out wildlife or a hiker a mile away and would always let you know when he saw something. Even when he was 31 years old, I would know if something was amiss outside just by looking at him. He would march toward a grizzly bear as if to say, "Hey, this is my yard!"

We had one client from Germany who had come with us on several pack trips. She admired Breeze so much, that although he was still pretty green then, I let her get on him for a photo. Just sitting on him made her so happy.

He was 8 years old when Paul Peyto and I married. I was riding Breeze to our chosen location above Peyto Lake, and he was being lazy, which was not like him at all. I knew Paul had taken a long ride the day before, pulling camps, so I put two and two together and realized then he had been using my horse. I turned around and asked him, "So how was my horse yesterday?" He smirked, knowing he was busted, and said, "Oh, pretty good". After that, I decided he might as well use Breeze as I mostly run the office and don't get to ride much. He used him as his main saddle horse until he was 27. Breeze guided pack trips all over Banff National Park and could remember every lunch stop, even if he hadn't been on that trail for years. He also figured they needed to stop there even if they had already stopped earlier!

Once retired he got to spend the next four years entertaining everyone by being the yard horse. I would dress him up for holidays, and he enjoyed being the center of attention and loved to pose. As soon as he saw me turn on a light in the morning he would look in the window saying, "It's about time - I need my breakfast!" He was loose to do as he pleased and knew he ran the show. He had such a huge personality. We have lots of great memories that bring smiles with thoughts of him.

I had forgotten until writing this that my journey with him actually started with this magazine. I find it an honour that my beautiful Breeze was chosen to share his photo and a small part of his story with this readership.

REGISTRATION TRANSFERS

Are you buying a registered horse now or in the future? If you are – Remember! You are not ‘all done’ when you hand over the selling price, get your bill of sale and load up your new horse for home. NO, there is still the matter of its registration papers. They are a very important part of the sale when buying a purebred animal. Just ‘handing over’ the papers is not enough.

Presumably you have already asked to see the horse’s registration certificate, and have made sure the horse matches the one described on it. Also be sure the seller’s name matches the name of the owner on the papers. If all that checks out, ask when the seller will send the registration certificate to the Registry to be transferred.

Under Canadian law, it is the seller’s responsibility to do this and pay the transfer fee. Most breeders do it as a matter of course. The papers go to the Registry, ownership is changed to your name in the records, and the certificate is sent back to the seller to be given to you within six months of the date of sale. (Or you can ask the seller to request the Registry to send them directly to you.)

However, sometimes a buyer prefers to take the registration certificate at time of purchase and send it in to the Registry personally with the fee and the request that they be returned directly to the new owner’s address. If you do this, be sure the seller has signed it clearly. You’ll likely have to pay the fee yourself. But you will know where the papers are and what’s happened to them.

It will be a proud and exciting day when your new Walker’s registration certificate arrives!

(And you can contact secretary@crtwh.ca if you have questions.)

CRTWH HISTORY CONTEST WINNER for May - MERINDA REID

CONGRATULATIONS to MERINDA REID of RIMBEY, AB: She writes, This month instead of reading the contest winners article I'm writing it! I own three Walkers and of course they are all special. I bought SKIPPITY DO DAH in 2019 from Brenda Baker, primarily for my granddaughter to ride when she is here. They hit it off right from the start: Acadia loves to give her attention and Skippy loves to receive it. Skippy is a very willing horse and has a lot of stamina. Last September Dave and I spent eight glorious days at the Yaha Tinda. He rode Skippy and I rode Jethro. Our best day of riding took us to Hidden Lake, an eight hour round trip that took us well above the tree line. Dave still has to walk every once in a while but Skippy carried him a good deal of the way. When we got back to camp he had that saddle yanked off, her blanket on and her feed ready in record time, all the while singing her praises. (Keep in mind that normally, Dave is quite sparing when it comes to praise.) The next morning, as she was being saddled up, you could tell she wasn't just willing to go again, she was eager to go again.

I bought HAWKEYE from Liz and Norm Levangie in 2016. He was extremely quiet but nervous. Dave did all the training as he spooked 'way too easy for me to want to ride, once even turning a 180 in the air. I will not even try to convince anyone how powerful he is; you really need to see it to believe it. Add that to his size, 15:3 hh, and the name Hawkeye somehow just didn't fit, so Dave changed it to Jethro. Fast forward to the summer of 2020 and all of sudden Jethro decides, 'Hey, I'm going to be a kids' horse.'

On June 30th, 2017 we went to the Rimbeey horse sale just to see what was selling and who was there. Who would have ever believed the Rimbeey Auction Mart would have my breed and my colour, but they did, and that day I brought SUNDANCE KID home with me. I bought him from Darrell Roth and loved him so much I just couldn't bear to turn him out with the other horses, so he was the yard horse for the entire summer. He had free run of the yard all day and as soon as it started to get dark he would put himself in a little pen I had for him and wait for me and the grandkidlets to come and close the gate. I had a large garden, big enough that if he did step on a few things I could spare the loss. He never did. In fact he only went into it once. One evening we looked toward the garden just in time to see four yellow legs and four hoofs waving back and forth in the middle of it. Laughing and hollering we ran to see how much damage he had done. He hadn't damaged a single plant. It was the end of August and by that time I had dug two rows of potatoes. He stepped in on those two rows, rolled on those two rows and stepped out from those two rows. By mid-September I was able to turn him out with the herd. That was a really great summer, and the grandkidlets and I still like to talk about the time Sunny rolled in the garden.

WINNER - Ancestry Contest LL'S PAINTED STORM Grand Sire on top side of pedigree - DARKIE'S LAST CHANCE 1989-1118

LESA LUCHAK, TWO HILLS, ALBERTA writes, A big Thank You to the CRTWH for putting on this contest! I did not grow up with horses as many of you lucky readers. I bought my first horse when I was in my twenties, from an auction market, where I bought my second and third... and then one day at an auction I found a beautiful palomino Tennessee Walking Horse. I brought her home and after about a month had a healthy palomino colt "Leroy" on the ground. This was in late March, in central Alberta! In time I registered the mare as "PALS SILVER MOONGLOW". In my search for a horse trainer for my mare I was fortunate enough to meet Frances Kerik who lives very close to me and she let me come ride one of her good old Walking Horse mares. She soon helped me find a ready-to-ride TWH saddle horse, the beautiful 1996 model, Golden Dreams Delight, who is still here and as spunky as ever. I became hooked on the Heritage blood lines and qualifications which led us to finding Moonlit Laughter. Then one day I found an ad for Darkie's Last Chance, which I hoped would get me my Heritage foal and some time later, LL CHANCE'S RED RASCAL, 2014-[CAN]3909- was born on a beautiful October day in 2014. I was lucky enough to stand DARKIE'S LAST CHANCE, 1989-1118- "Chance" at our farm for his last few years. Chance sired some nice foals for us. My only regret is not breeding more mares to him.

LL CHANCE'S RED RASCAL is the sire of LL'S PAINTED STORM, who is the winner in the CRTWH Grandsire contest. (I won't tell you how many Walkers now grace my pastures!)

WHAT IS A.L.T. IN the CRTWH RIDE/DRIVE/ALT PROGRAM?

by Sue Gamble

Have you ever wondered what the 'ALT' in the Ride/Drive Your Walker Program stands for? Well, it can stand for Alternate ways of spending time with your horse, or specifically, for Agility, Liberty or Trick training.

AGILITY is a sport for people who want to have fun and a challenge with their horses! Just as in dog agility a handler takes a dog through an obstacle course, so too horses can be put through agility obstacles. Agility can be part of an organized competition or can be practiced for its many benefits for fun at home. Agility training starts with the horse on line; however the goal is to have the horse navigate the obstacles entirely off line. Some agility challenges can be as simple as having your horse stand in one spot without moving; walk over a tarpaulin or go through a gate; there are many more imaginative tasks. The challenge is attempting these obstacles off line. Agility can also be the perfect activity for those who may not be able to work their horse under saddle. Agility work builds confidence in the horse and the handler while improving relationship, communication, fitness, balance, and connection. There are many sources of information on agility. See Linda Tellington-Jones and Virginia Bee for inspiration. And best of all it is fun!

LIBERTY TRAINING is all about communication. The handler works from the ground. Liberty should be engaging for both the handler and the horse. You can begin on line and in a round pen with the goal of going off line and outside of the round pen. Never play with your horse in a space where the horse can leave and endanger himself or others. Once off-line and outside of the round pen, a large fenced pasture is ideal. Liberty should be friendly and engaging, never angry and frustrating for either party. It can become a dance, with your horse as a partner. Keeping a positive attitude is one of the challenges it presents. The challenge with liberty is to find the balance between draw and drive that allows you to perfect the task at hand whether that be having the horse circle around you, change direction or change gait on command, sending the horse away and having him return to you like a boomerang, having the horse spin, or any other ground work exercise that make up the basket of liberty manoeuvres. Liberty is the ultimate body language exercise both for horse and human. To communicate softly as if there is no cue between the two is the aim for many liberty trainers. And once you have mastered liberty with one horse you can challenge yourself to add in another and work with two or more horses at the same time. Such fun! Overall Liberty training is a superb way to enhance connection, build confidence, improve bonding, find purpose, and improve physical fitness for horse and human. There are many references on Liberty training but taking a look at Jonathan Field or David Lichmann (who has worked with TWH), is a good place to start.

TRICK TRAINING goes beyond simple entertainment. There are the usual tricks like saying yes, saying no, counting, picking up gloves or other objects, which all lead an audience to appreciate your horse and think he is very clever. Who can resist? Ultimately trick training should lead to bowing, lying down, kneeling, the Spanish March and more. Keep tricks to movements the horse can do naturally. Teaching rearing as a trick remains controversial, with some people teaching it and others not. Trick training enhances your relationship, communication, and connection with your horse. There are many references available for trick training including Imagine A Horse with Sue DeLaurentis and Alan Pogue. Sue and Alan have worked with Tennessee Walking Horses and referred to them as 'the best kept secret' because Walkers are generally easy to teach, gentle, willing to please and people-loving.

So if this sounds interesting to you, there are options apart from riding or driving for joining the CRTWH Ride/ Drive/ ALT Program; other activities that let you spend quality time together with your horse!

SHARING THE TRAILS

Back Yard Walkin'

© Allanna Lea Jackson May, 2021

The White Mountains of eastern Arizona are one of several ecological sky islands in the state, each with its own unique mix of flora and fauna. The elevation ranges from 6,000 feet to over 11,000 feet. This is part of the world's largest Ponderosa Pine forest crowned with mixed conifer forest at the highest elevations. The White Mountains are the wettest part of Arizona.

The Lakeside Ranger District of the Sitgreaves National Forest has the White Mountain Trail System – a 200-mile network of non-motorized trails shared by hikers, horseback riders, and mountain bicyclists. There is a 60-mile motorized trail for ATVs, UTVs, and motorcycles plus too many miles of general-purpose Forest roads. The roads and trails are mostly separate, but they do cross each other and in a few places they overlap.

It is very easy to get out into the public Forest to engage in outdoor recreation, but whatever you're doing you need to be prepared to share the Forest with other users engaging in other activities.

Trailhead kiosks for non-motorized trails typically include two signs. One says, "All dogs must be kept on a leash." The other is a triangular diagram which illustrates that bicycles yield to horses and hikers yield to both bicycles and horses. This is the trail sharing protocol recommended by the non-profit organizations, Back Country Horsemen of America (BCHA) and Leave No Trace, that support sustainable recreational use of National Forest and Wilderness areas. Trail sharing usually works well, especially if you go out with a cheerful, courteous attitude and ride a reliable trail horse.

May 1, I trailered both horses out to a trail named Ghost of Coyote so we could ride the 6-mile short loop of a 15-mile trail. This trail incorporates several roads that wander through cattle grazing allotments. This is the only trail where motorized and non-motorized trails intentionally overlap a Forest road so Ghost of Coyote is functionally an all-purpose trail.

I rode Cinnamon and ponied Velvet. We were half a mile from the trailhead when we met a couple hiking toward us. They quickly stepped off the trail to let us pass. They were on the uphill side of the trail partially hidden by trees. BCHA recommends asking hikers to step off the trail on the downhill side and stand where equines can clearly see them. These hikers were complying with trail etiquette but the Junipers were so thick they couldn't be off the trail and fully visible. I engaged them in a pleasant conversation, both to be courteous and to help my horses identify them. The hikers exclaimed about how pretty my mares are. I thanked them and commented, "Nice day for a hike." The man replied, "It sure is, but I like your method better." We wished each other a good day.

Half a mile later I noticed a truck creeping along a Forest Road, then lost sight of it. A few minutes later the horses alerted at a dog running across a meadow, then back to a truck parked beside the trail. Two women were throwing sticks for two dogs to retrieve. They put the dogs in their truck the moment they saw us. A third dog started toward us, ignoring the women's efforts to summon it. I commented, "Looks like you're having a nice game of fetch." One of the women replied, "Yes, we were". Velvet eyed the loose dog, who stayed a safe distance away and trotted along parallel to us. One of the women said, "The dog should be okay." I replied, "The horses should be okay too, but no guarantees." The women caught the dog as soon as it got within reach. One of them said, "Thanks for your patience with us." I wished them a nice game as we continued down the trail.

We had the trail to ourselves but there were tracks of animals, hikers, vehicles, and a bicycle. We took a detour over to Blue Grass Tank, which is a man-made slough. It was totally dry.

Back on the trail I saw rectangular tread tracks from some kind of heavy equipment. I didn't hear or see the machine. I did hear shooting somewhere ahead. The rectangular tracks continued to a cattle guard where Ghost of Coyote trail makes right angle turns to follow a fence line either right or left while the road continues straight. The wire gate beside the cattle guard was open. The track marks went through it and up the Shortcut trail which looked more like a bulldozer-built fire-break than a road. There was a faint odor of wildfire smoke on the wind. The shooting had stopped.

We climbed a hill where there are panoramic views of the nearby communities and distant mountains. The trail descended into a valley. Looking across the valley I saw a white truck on the far side where the shooting had resumed in a manner that sounded like responsible target practice. The trail turned the opposite direction so we were safe. The trailhead was deserted when we got back to my trailer.

May 13, I trailered both horses to The Springs trail, which is a 4-mile truly non-motorized loop beside a creek and through the Ponderosa forest. While I was saddling up the horses alerted as a bicyclist whizzed through the parking lot, jumped his bike over the bottom bar on the gate, and sped off down the trail.

A few minutes later a truck pulled in with a bicycle hanging over the tailgate. The horses and I started our ride. A quarter mile down the trail I heard the jingle of a bell. It was the bicyclist. He asked permission to pass the horses. We moved off the trail to let him by. He thanked us as he passed. Half a mile later we found him turning around at the creek. He explained the trail was rockier than he expected. I suggested another nearby trail might be more to his liking. He thanked me and rode back the way he'd come.

Three miles later we met another bicyclist coming rapidly toward us. He slowed down. I moved the horses off the trail. He rode by slowly, then sped off without saying anything.

We continued back to the trailhead, which was deserted, loaded up and went home.

HOW THEY DID THINGS BACK THEN by Franne Brandon

PROMOTING A GOOD STALLION IN THE EARLY YEARS OF THE WALKING HORSE

Walking horse stallion owners in the twenty-first century have an arsenal of advertising mediums at their disposal for the promotion of their animals and the programs that they have developed. Magazines, print and online, newspapers, the internet, social media, horse show competition, trail riding in large groups when stallions are permitted - quite a variety of methods exist.

When the breed was in its infancy, however, technology was as well. One of the best ways in those days to promote an animal was to have stallion posters printed and then to distribute them at feed stores, tack shops, livery stables, and other places where mare owners might take notice.

In 1923, R.H. Clark purchased a two-year-old sorrel stallion sired by Major Allen and out of a mare named Nell K. He followed the tradition of other stallion owners of the era and had stallion posters printed to advertise his young prospect. One of the early posters is dated 1926, nine years before the organization of the Tennessee Walking Horse Breeders Association of America. The horse is named only Red Allen at the time, and he has top billing on the poster, sharing it with a black jack named Jim. Fifteen years later, Red Allen had been registered as Clark's Red Allen 370021. Upon the death of R.H. Clark, his daughter Sarah Clark Oliver had inherited the stallion. Sarah and her husband Herman Oliver had a stallion poster printed in 1941, using the same information as her dad had done in 1926. The stud fee had increased from $10 to $15 to insure a colt, but the contents of the poster advertising the red stallion is still the same.

The newer poster begins with the "Pedigree and Description of Clark's Red Allen." His color is given as red sorrel. The poster states that "He is a real walking horse, medium size, good bone and foot..." Breeders even in 1941 used their walking horses, and a fine boned, delicate animal was only considered suitable for a ladies' saddle horse. The poster then states "...full mane and tail and natural in appearance." Although the show horses of this time usually sported surgically altered tails, the everyday rider wanted a horse with lovely flowing mane and good tail carriage. The first paragraph finishes with the phrase "Handsome in appearance and kind in disposition." Walking horse owners of that era wanted good looking horses with great dispositions, just as trail riders do today.

The second paragraph on the stud poster lists the attributes of Red Allen's sire, the black stallion Major Allen, his sire, Mitch, great grandsire "Brantley's Roan Allen, a horse of wonderful style, shape, and gait." Copied directly from the 1926 stallion poster, this was the horse known to history as Roan Allen F-38. The final line in the top line of stallions is "Great great grandsire Allen, a standardbred trotter, but double-gaited, a wonderful walker and sire of walking horses." Note that the poster spells the name as Allen, the one carried on by his descendants, not the horse's A.T.R. registered name of Allan.

The third paragraph on the poster is devoted to the mares on the sire's side of the pedigree. First mention is given to Merry Legs, being sired by Black Allen, out of Nell. Nell's sire is listed as Darnold, although current TWHBEA records list him as Donald F-3. Whether this was well-known in 1941 can't be ascertained. The poster provides the facts that "Merry Legs won the walking horse stake at the State and Country Fairs for several years." Nell, it reports, was never exhibited at the State Fair in Nashville but did win on the county fair circuits. The breeding of the dam of Mitch, a Stonewall mare, and Brantley's Roan Allen, a Denmark mare, is also provided.

The fourth paragraph shifts from the bloodlines of the sire of Clark's Red Allen to his dam's attributes.

It states "Red Allen's first dam is Nell K., by Brantley's Roan Allen, out of a Bullett mare. The poster is full of praise for the dam of Clark's Red Allen. The pride in a good mare and what she contributes to the gene pool comes through. It states "Nell K. was a grand walking mare in her day. She was a mare with lots of head motion and style and had a graceful way of going and carried her rider with great ease." It is very refreshing to notice the importance accorded to the mares on both sides of the pedigree in this promotional poster.

Breeders of that era recognized the importance of strong mares in a pedigree and their overall contribution to what the stallion was and what the foals could be. None of this "Well, if she doesn't "make", I can always breed her."

The last bit of promotion on the poster relates to both stallion and mare's lines. It states "Every horseman in the country knows what an Allen horse is - --they are real walking horses. You will notice Red Allen is a line-bred Allen, and will breed you a real walking horse colt, the kind that gets the money and rides easy." Sell it or keep it, the mare owner can't go wrong with a foal sired by Clark's Red Allen.

At the time of the 1941 poster, Clark's Red Allen was at stud at Herman Oliver's barn, two miles north of Ostella on Yell Road. Stud fee was $15 in insure a colt; today the term is live foal guarantee. The funds were due "when fact is ascertained or the mare is traded."

The final advertising is the liability clause still seen to this day, that care will be taken to prevent accidents but not responsible if one should occur.

While simple posters, often without photos, may seem a primitive way to advertise stallions, in the early 20th century, when the everyday mare owner had no more access to advertising media than the stallion owner, these were highly effective for local regions. Leon Oliver, whose parents had the 1941 poster printed, remembers the year 1942 as being a strong one for their stallion. He says "I think he bred 112 mares in 1942 to Clark's Red Allen." Stallions posters worked. Good foals had mare owners coming back. The system worked, and the breed grew.

Red Sorrel, with white feet, star and snip, foaled 1921. He is a real walking horse, medium size, good bone and foot, full mane and tail and natural style. Handsome in appearance and kind in disposition.

Sired by Major Allen, a black horse with white markings, a sure enough walking horse with extra style and shape, and a real producer of walking horses. Grandsire, Mitch, a full made good shaped walker. Great grandsire, Brantley's Roan Allen a horse of wonderful style, shape and gait. For a number of years he was successful winner under the saddle at the State and County Fairs. Nell was never shown at the State Fair, but successful winner in the plantation walking horse shows in the County Fairs. Mitch is out of a Stonewall mare, a good walker and style. Brantley's Roan Allen is out of Denmark mare, a mare of great style and gait under the saddle.

Red Allen's first dam is Nell K., by Brantley's Roan Allen, out of a Bullett mare. Nell K. was a grand walking mare in her day. She was a mare with lots of head motion and style and had a graceful way of going, and carried her rider with great ease. Every horseman in the country knows what an Allen horse is—they are real walking horses. You will notice Red Allen is a line-bred Allen, and will breed you a real walking colt, the kind that gets the money and rides easy.

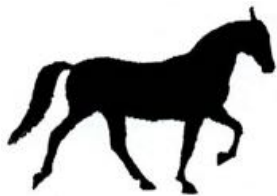

Red Allen will make the season of 1941 at my place 2 miles north of Ostella on Yell road. Terms—$15.00 to insure colt. Season due when fact is ascertained or mare traded. Care taken to prevent accidents, but not liable should any occur.

DAN ALLEN

6 years old 15.2, blaze face, 2 stocking feet, good foals, good walker and good condition. Terms—He will serve mares at $10.00, and under the same terms as Clark's Red Allen.

Dam, Bivins' Lady 370429.
Sire, Hunter's Allen F-IV.
Dam, Berdie by Hal Gordon, by Brown Hal, Jr., F-41. Sire, General Allen 350076; Sire Hunter's Allen F-10. Dam June Collins, by Actonward, by Shadeland Onward, by Onward, by Geo. Wilkes F-54; 2nd dam by Herbert Hal, by Luna's Tom Hal by Tom Hal F-20.
